It is generally believed that Washoe county assesses the Central Pacific railroad within its limits at $9,000 per mile, and collects taxes on that rate without suit. An article in the Reno Journal a few days ago, in which Assessors in the several counties through which the road runs, were requested to follow the example of Washoe, and make the rate per mile uniform throughout the State, seemed to confirm that view of the case. County Assessor Buckner, doubting the correctness of the Journal's assertion, wrote to J. S. Shoemaker, clerk of Washoe county, for the facts in the matter. In reply the clerk says: "There are 52 and 30-100 miles of the Central Pacific Railroad in Washoe county, which at $6,000 per mile amounts to $310,800, and on that amount the railroad company paid taxes last Fall." The fact is the railroad company never has, in the State of Nevada, without litigation, paid taxes on a valuation of more than $6,000 per mile on their road bed.—Winnemucca Silver State.

We shall briefly answer the above, reiterating our previous assertion that the basis of settlement between this county and the railroad for taxes last year was at the rate of $9,000 per mile for the road bed. The Assessor assessed at the rate of $12,000, but the Board of Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Equalization, made a general order reducing the assessment at a valuation of $30,000 less on rolling stock, and the road bed figured at $9,000 instead of $12,000. The railroad company may deceive Assessors of other counties by showing figures that would lead them to believe the road bed was estimated at $6,000, and the personal property increased proportionately to make up the desired amount. It is a lie. Washoe county will not accept taxes on a less valuation than $9,000 on the road bed, and the railroad will pay on that amount. They have fought us in the Courts all they want to. If the other counties are scared off by their threats and misrepresentations they are very foolish.

Texas is rapidly taking a prominent place among the great Wheat States of the Union. The Denison News says that the area in wheat this year will be double that planted in 1875, and estimates the yield at 12,000,000 bushels. In 1874 there was not a sufficient quantity raised to supply the local consumption; in the following year about 8,000,000 bushels were raised, leaving 6,000,000 for export, and now 12,000,000 is placed as the yield for 1876. By the resident farmers, the soil and climate are considered as propitious to the cultivation as that of any section of the country, including California. The average yield for the State is 25 bushels to the acre, and in some districts the yield runs as high as 40 bushels.

THE POLITICAL DRIFT.—The Presidential field seems a trifle mixed, with candidates as thick as blackbirds in a corn-field—reminding us of the White House races in '56. Massachusetts is evidently "on the fence," gazing eagerly at the two B's, but the heft of that Commonwealth is for Bristow. New York shows a strong front for Tilden, in a Democratic sense, with Conkling leading the Republican electors with a very weak string. Morton, who started too early in the race, sees a portentous cloud floating lazily along the Valley of the Ohio. Of the six dozen other aspirants, in both parties, their chances of being struck by lightning is good.

LIFE INSURANCE.—The annual report of the New York State Superintendent of life insurance, indicate a large falling off in business the last year, and worse still, foreshadows a decreased business in the future. People have lost confidence in life insurance companies—mainly because they have been so badly officered, and so extravagantly conducted.

AN EDITOR'S DOWNFALL.

How Brother Parkinson of the Carson "Tribune" Became a Modest Man.

[S. F. Post of Saturday.]

Brother Parkinson of the Carson Tribune is an editor and forty-niner, and, to use the expression that was a favorite with him prior to his recent visit to San Francisco, "what he didn't know wasn't worth knowing." Since his return to the mountains, however, he has developed an unwonted amount of modesty that is as unnatural to the Washoe editor as it is startling to Brother Parkinson's intimate friends. With a view to removing any fears which those much exercised people may entertain with regard to the editor's condition, the Post hastens to assure them that the modesty so unaccountably developed by Brother Parkinson is not a premonitory sign of a hasty dissolution. Neither does it indicate softening of the editorial intellect or conversion to grace from the cesspools of journalistic unregeneracy. It is simply the result of an accession of worldly knowledge which residents at "the Bay" sometimes acquire. How Brother Parkinson increased his store of experience he may not be anxious to tell, and therefore a Post reporter will for the occasion act as the distinguished journalist's biographer.

To begin, then, a short time since there came to this city an elderly gentleman whose severely clerical appearance warranted the surmise that he had some connection with the ministry, and whose dress, ample boots and slender carpetbag justified two theories—first, that he came from the mountains, and, second, that like most mountaineers he was not particular about his personal appearance. Notwithstanding this extravagant display of

HIS CONTEMPT FOR PUBLIC OPINION, He was very fastidious in choosing his society, this clerical gentleman from the mountains. Consequently he lived very quietly. He was known generally as Mr. Parkinson, but only a few favored mortals were aware what a great man the hotel sheltered and the register announced under this plebeian cognomen. Of these few was a young man of unobtrusive manners. There was nothing remarkable about this young man, except his mustache and his stammer, which were on the inverse ratio to each other. The stammer was prodigious—worse, it was astounding. It jarred on the dull ears of the ordinary boarders. It smote on the sensitive tympanum of the clerical gent from the country like a sledge hammer and shocked his fastidious mind. Therefore, when this stammering bore one morning ascended the clerical frigidity from the mountains he was sternly repulsed with "You've got the advantage of me, sir. Good morning."

"B-B-B-ut, yo-yo-yo-u kn-n-n ow m-m-m-y u-u-u-n-c-l-e, sir," persisted this stammering pachyderm.

"Ah, do I though?" [with chilling politeness.] "Who is the gentleman?"

"Sh-Sh-Sh-eriff S-S-Swift, of O-O-O-Or-m-m-s-b-y c-c-c-o-u-n-t-y."

"No! Why, I beg your pardon, sir. I'm delighted to see you. Sheriff Swift—why he's one of my oldest friends. And you're his nephew—delighted indeed to see you—have a smile?"

The young man smiled. So did Mr. Parkinson. The latter threw aside his reserve and smiled four fingers deep. They smiled several times and then they took a walk. As they passed out, a close observer might have noticed that the hackmen round the door snickered quietly to themselves, but

MR. PARKINSON NOTED IT NOT.

He was too happy to observe closely. He only thought of Ormsby county and the genial Sheriff of that far-off section. As they walked down the street, the manly, graceful figure of the editor the cynosure of thousands of pairs of admiring eyes, the journalist amused his companion with a brilliant disquisition on the lamentable ignorance of all mankind outside the sanctum sanctorum of the Carson Tribune.

"And speaking of the bunko sharps to which you incidentally referred," said the wise man of the mountains, "I observe that the San Francisco papers are full of the exploits of those scoundrels who infect the thoroughfares of this little city in such numbers as escape for the guileless rustic is almost an impossibility. But by my halidome," contended the Nevada oracle, "it passes my comprehension how any one with an intellect one degree superior to an idiot could be victimized by such bungling, transparent knavery."

The young man stammered his indorsement of those wise sentiments, and asked the editor whether he had ever seen the fascination game of bunko.

"Well—no, but—I've investigated the swindle theoretically—and written it up—and of course I understand the hogging principle on which it is conducted."

"W-w-w-hat is it l-l-l like?"

"Oh, a sort of lottery swindle—you draw one of twenty-seven cards in a box—of course there are twenty-seven chances against you—"

A MOST TRANSPARENT SWINDLE, SIR—No one but an idiot could be victimized by it. The dangerous charm of the whole thing, of course, is that it looks like a fair and square lottery, and no one objects to that. Have you ever invested in a lottery?"

"Oh, y-y-yes," said Sheriff Swift's nephew; and with a gush of confidence he added, "I w-w-won 100 d-d-dollars in a l-l-lottery the other d-day. I've g-g-got c-c-considerable m-m-m-o-n-e-y i-i-i-n-v-e-s-t-e-d i-i-i-n o-o-o-n-e n-n-now. By the w-way, the d-d-drawing c-c-c-o-m-e-s off this m-m-m-o-r-n-i-n-g. Let's d-d-drop in and s-s-s-e-e-u it."

"Certainly," said the editor; and piloted by the Sheriff's relative, he stepped into a neat office on Montgomery street, where a young man sat perched on a high stool, wrestling with a formidable row of figures in a substantial-looking ledger.

IN THE TOILET.

"You vouch for the honor of your friend?" the clerk inquired of the Sheriff's nephew. "All right, sir; we're obliged to use great caution in our business," and he closed the door.

The business transacted in the office must have been very interesting, for the door remained closed for an hour. At the expiration of that time it was flung open by a clerical looking gentleman. His pale face was flushed, his necktie was awry and his general appearance that of a man laboring under intense excitement. He stood a few moments at the doorstep, scowling at the sun, mocking his misery in its brightness, and then, as his nervous fingers wandered through his empty pockets, he wailed: "Oh! that the fool killer might come around now! $250 gone—great scissiors! was it for this that I left Nevada and come to San Francisco to preach morality and be roped in by the stuttering capper of a bunko bank." The same evening Mr. Parkinson suddenly left his hotel.

This foregoing may in some measure account for that gentleman's alarming acquisition of modesty. It may also explain the aggressive attitude which the Carson Tribune has suddenly assumed toward the sporting fraternity.

Under the heading "Not Fleeced by Bunko Sharps," the Chronicle of Sunday morning, contradicts the above story in the following language:

The story published in an evening cotemporary yesterday that Judge Parkinson of the Carson Tribune had been swindled out of $250 by bunko sharps, is untrue in every particular. The gentleman was approached by a capper, but the Judge's shrewdness, honesty and aversion to gambling were so apparent that the bunkoists gave up in disgust their effort to ensnare him.

An estimate of the hotels and boarding houses of Philadelphia (just made) gives the capacity of lodging visitors to the Centennial Exposition at one hundred and thirty thousand. But to do this they must put "three in a bed."

EASTERN DISPATCHES.

Imperial Thanks.

New York, May 15.

A cable special says that on Thursday a grand reception was held at the Prussian Embassy, the entire diplomatic corps being present, on the presentation of Wickham Hoffman, the American charge d'affaires, to the Empress. Her Majesty expressed gratification in being able for the first time to personally express her thanks to the members of the legation, which during the Franco-German struggle were so good and painstaking. Her Majesty also requested Hoffman to convey her thanks to Minister Washburn, and spoke kindly of Bancroft Davis the American Minister at Berlin.

Washington Items.

WASHINGTON, May 15.

Although the Morrison tariff bill is among the special orders, it is not likely to be reached for several weeks, as the general appropriation bills take precedence.

Members who converse about adjournment, say that Congress can adjourn before the middle of July, according to present prospects.

The total payments of silver up to Saturday are about $4,425,000.

There is no doubt that Richard Harrington, under indictment in the safe burglary case, has fled the country. It is thought he is in Canada. The extradition treaty with England does not apply.

Larger numbers of counterfeit notes have recently been received at the Redemption Department of the Treasury than ever before within the same length of time.

Floods.

LANCASTER, N. H., May 15.

The water in the Connecticut river is still rising and heavy rains are falling. No lives have as yet been reported lost, but the damage to property has been very great. The track of the Boston, Connecticut and Montreal, and Grand Trunk Railroads are under water for twenty miles. At Northumberland a torrent ten feet deep passed through the village.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

Accident—Pedestrian Match—Declared False—New Rooms.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.

As the steamer City of Panama, which arrived last night, entered her berth at the mail dock, she ran into the Australian steamer Zelandia, damaging her so that one of her water tight compartments filled and her stern sank in the mud. She will be repaired in a few days.

A fire occurred in the Chinese cigar factory on Commercial street this morning. The loss is about $5,000. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

At midnight O'Leary and Schmehl began to walk. At 9 o'clock this morning the former completed his 46th mile, Schmehl being two and a half miles behind.

At 12:51 to day O'Leary had completed his sixty-second mile. Schmehl stopped for rest at 12:02 on his fifty-fifth mile.

A picnic given by the Knights of the Red Branch, at Belmont, yesterday, at which O'Donovan Rossa was a guest, was largely attended, and the most orderly assemblage of the season—the hoodlum element being conspicuous by its absence. The parties all returned home in good order.

The Mint officials claim that there is no truth in the sensational report published by the Chronicle regarding the discovery of $4,000 in a heap of ashes on a vacant lot in the vicinity of the Mint. They assert that it is absolutely impossible that such a thing should have occurred, unless the entire Mint management was radically corrupt or utterly perverted. The check is too swift and certain to allow any gross neglect or dishonesty to pass undiscovered a single day.

The new rooms of the Pacific Stock Exchange were opened for public inspection this afternoon, and were visited by a large crowd. The Board-room is conveniently arranged for both brokers and visitors, though the bull and bear-ring seems rather small for a lively set-to.

MILITARY RETRENCHMENT.—A majority of the New England States have expended since the war an unreasonable amount of money upon their militia, but whether from State pride or fear of another Southern Rebellion we cannot say. This tax has become burdensome, and the first State to adopt a retrenchment in this line was Rhode Island; and now Massachusetts follows quickly after. Her last Legislature cut down the militia system materially. The present organized companies enumerate ninety-nine, but the late act reduces them down to ten of cavalry and artillery, and sixty of infantry, comprising three thousand six hundred men. Ample for the Bay State in days of peace.

Boston and New York journals say fractional currency is getting scarce, and that the new silver coins, just poured into the channels of trade, are hoarded by the people. What does that mean? Amateur financiers told us the people liked a paper currency better than gold and silver, and yet they hoard the latter as soon as they got possession of it. Evidently, they believe it more valuable than Government shin-plasters.

THE ADVERTISEMENT OF THE CARSON SOAP WORKS which appears in to day's STATE JOURNAL was composed and written by me before ever the manager or workman of the Carson Soap Works knew what a piece of soap was, I am surprised at L. & G. for so grossly appropriating an advertisement written by a person not having charge of the educational interests of a certain portion of our State. Were I connected with institutions of learning I would not appropriate the simple composition of a hard-boiled son of toil, endeavoring to advance my own interests. F. H. MULCAHY.
